EATON HOLDING FIRM REORGANIZED

REPORT EATON DEFEATED IN FIGHT TO HALT STEEL MERGER

(BULLETIN) YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 28.—Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland capitalist, and all other directors of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company were re-elected at the annual meeting of the stockholders here today.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 28.—With rumors flying thick and fast in financial circles as to the probable action to be taken, stockholders of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. gathered here today for their annual meeting which may bring peace to the Mahoning steel district.

One of the reports current was that Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, who opposed the merger of Sheet and Tube with Bethlehem, and his three associates on the board, were to be replaced to pave the way for a new Bethlehem merger deal.

Another rumor was to the effect that the hostilities over the consolidation of the two large steel concerns had ended and that the opposition forces would withdraw from the battle against the merger and permit the Youngstown concern to join with the Schwab-Grace enterprise.

These reports followed closely the heels of Eaton's resignation as chairman of the board and director in Continental Shares, an investment company he founded. Eaton and his associates were replaced on the Continental board by four Cleveland bankers a short time after Otis and Company, Cleveland brokerage firm in which Eaton is interested, announced the transfer of its business to the E. A. Pierce and Company of Chicago.

BURKE BEGINS TERM FOR LIFE

Killer Sentenced After Guilty Plea

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., April 28.—Manacled to two deputy sheriffs and with an escort of three armed automobiles mounted with machine guns, Fred Burke, gang killer, was taken from the county jail here today to the Marquette penitentiary to begin serving a life sentence for the murder of a policeman.

Burke pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of slaying Policeman Charles Skelly in 1929. He will be eligible for parole after twenty-five years, less time off for good behavior.

Judge Charles E. White, who sentenced Burke yesterday, charged him with second degree murder, contending the crime was committed in "hot anger," and was not premeditated.

The man who was wanted by six cities following his capture at St. Joseph, Mo., thanked Judge White after sentence was pronounced. Burke's name was linked to several killings throughout the mid-west, including the Chicago St. Valentine's Day massacre.

REGIL HOTEL HERE IS SOLD

VETERAN DIES

ASHLAND, O., April 28.—Funeral services for Charles Shutt, 64, "correspondent from Keener's Run," one of the most widely quoted country newspaper writers in the United States, were to be held here today.

Shutt, who died in Wooster, was a rural correspondent for the Ashland Times-Gazette for twenty years. His items frequently were reprinted by columnists all over the country.

FESS, SHOUSE EACH DEMAND APOLOGY AS CONTROVERSY ENDS

Raskob's Religion Subject Of Fight Between Parties

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The controversy between J. Edgar Hoover, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, and Senator Simon D. Fess, of Ohio, chairman of the Republican national committee, concerning which party is guilty of reviving the matter of John J. Raskob's religion, perhaps ended today with each demanding the other to apologize.

The battle, carried on since last Wednesday in statements to the press, developed over Shouse's recent speech in San Francisco in which Fess claimed he charged the Republican committee published copies of a magazine article attacking Raskob. Fess charged Shouse made this revelation after he thought his remarks were not being broadcast "but that he was trapped by the radio."

Shouse denied he mentioned religion and demanded an apology. Fess admitted the committee circulated in pamphlet form portions of a magazine article written by Frank Kent, Washington writer, but denied it dealt with Raskob's religion.

Today Fess sent Shouse a telegram advising him "if apologies are in order you should make a very humble one to the country at large for your contemptible methods and your utterly false statements." He also told Shouse he had obtained a stenographic copy of his San Francisco speech and quoted the following:

"I have already talked too long and I have quit talking over the radio, but I want to talk just a moment, if I may, about one or two other things that I think are very pertinent to the present political situation."

"It happens that John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, is perhaps the most prominent lay Catholic in America. Starting with an article written by Frank Kent, an alleged Democrat, in Scribner's magazine for August, and reproduced to the extent of ten million copies by the Republican national committee, and sent all over the United States, the Republican high command endeavored, because of Raskob's connection with the Catholic Church, to hold him up as a 'boogymon' before the American people."

"Smearing the President of the United States," they say, I saw, and many of you heard the form of a canned speech that was sent out by the Republican national committee to be used from one end of this country to the other, and half of it was devoted to the condemnation of John J. Raskob, and I say to you that if John J. Raskob had been a member of the Methodist Church, if you please, instead of the Catholic Church, his name would not have been mentioned during the campaign."

In its original form allowing the director to make minor rules and regulations the bill was vetoed by the governor. When changes had been made the bill was found to be satisfactory to the executive.

Senator Robert L. Rohe (R) of Tiffin, chairman of the senate finance committee, vigorously opposed the salary boost item in the bill when it was considered by the legislature but was unable to prevent its passage.

The Taft bill reducing membership on the Ohio judicial council from nine to eight, the Schumaker bill requiring that contracts for the sale of real estate be in writing and the Emmons bill amending provisions of the real estate license code also were signed by the governor, leaving eighty-eight bills to be acted upon by May 4.

STUDENTS KILLED DURING RIOTING

LISBON, April 28.—Two students were shot and seriously wounded today when police attempted to break up a demonstration in protest against the alleged killing of a student at Oporto.

Undergraduates at the schools of law and medicine struck in protest against the alleged killing, which the Oporto authorities denied.

SECOND SHOT VICTIM DIES; ASSAILANT TO FACE MURDER CHARGE

"Must Have Been Crazy" Gun Wielder Says After Shooting

COLUMBUS, O., April 28.—John Carroll, 53-year-old cripple, died in Mercy Hospital here today, the second victim of a shooting scrape yesterday in which his brother-in-law, Judson Vermatt, 60, of Huntington, W. Va., was the alleged attacker.

Carroll's death followed by a few hours the death of Robert Summers, 50, Columbus auto mechanic, who was shot and instantly killed, according to police, during an argument over the repair of an auto.

"I must have been crazy," I must have been crazy, I tell you."

That was the only explanation Vermatt could offer today for the fatal shooting.

First degree murder charges will be filed sometime today. Vermatt first declared "It's all a dream to me," but later admitted, county authorities said, that he had been drinking beer before the shooting.

Vermatt was said to have been an onlooker while Summers repaired Carroll's car at Reese's station yesterday.

Differing with Summers over the best method of repair, according to police, Vermatt whipped out a revolver and fired point blank at the mechanic, killing him almost instantly.

The crippled man tried to wrest the weapon from his brother-in-law but was seriously injured in the scuffle.

Carroll tried to ward off the alleged attack with his crutch, police said Charles Webb, a neighbor who was spading in a garden nearby, told them.

Vermatt thrust his revolver against Carroll's abdomen and fired twice, Webb supposedly told police. Vermatt used a revolver that belonged to Carroll in the shooting, he is said to have revealed in answer to police inquiries.

Rising early Monday morning, he drank two bottles of beer before breakfast, took Carroll's revolver from a drawer in Carroll's bedroom, and started for a walk. On his return to the house, he drank more beer, police said.

Arguments with his brother-in-law over payment of room rent, which were said to have started Saturday night, were not renewed before the shooting yesterday, according to Vermatt's alleged statements.

The mechanic helped Vermatt obtain a job with the Hocking Valley Railroad five years ago, a job which he held until recently, police declared. When he obtained the job he started residing at the Carroll home, where he had remained until the shooting, according to police.

UHRICHSVILLE MAN HAS PROOF OF FORT

UHRICHSVILLE, O., April 28.—Uhrichsville today was ready to offer evidence to show that Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler was correct when he said there was a Fort River in Haiti in 1915, and that it was captured and later blown up.

Harry Green, Uhrichsville photographer, who said he was official cameraman for Butler's Marine outfit in 1915, said he has pictures showing the fort both before and after capture, and even a photograph showing bodies of rebels about the fort after the battle.

Haiti's Washington representative recently was quoted as saying that Haiti did not know of such a fort.

POLICE FIGHT AND ONE SHOT

CHICAGO, April 28.—An argument between a veteran police sergeant and two policemen over the merits of a third policeman ended today in the shooting of the sergeant in a south side soft drink parlor.

The wounded sergeant, Thomas Mulgahy, 50, was shot through the right cheek, his condition was said to be serious.

The two policemen, Michael Murrah, 34, and Lawrence Cleary, were arrested later. Murrah was accused of the shooting.

LOS ANGELES FEELS STORM

Waterspouts Drench Inland Section

LOS ANGELES, Calif., April 28.—This vicinity was recovering today from the effects of a storm which left floods and fires in its wake.

Jumping from the sea, four waterspouts proceeded one and a half miles inland and collapsed on a high hill near Compton. Six inches of rain fell in this district. Three other waterspouts beaded down the coast over the ocean toward San Diego.

Lightning ignited a Shell Oil Co. distilling unit and caused considerable damage in this area.

A cloudburst in the harbor area washed out a section of the main trucking highway and covered railroad tracks with mud and silt.

Four small bridges in Los Angeles were washed away by the torrents of water.

An area of several blocks was flooded in Long Beach.

Rainfall was general throughout the southern part of the state and a heavy snowfall was reported in the mountains.

GIRL CONTINUES TO FIGHT EXPULSION

HAMILTON, O., April 28.—Referring to "arbitrary rules made by the college barons," a brief was filed in common pleas court here today by Miss Jean West, Miami University, freshman of Portsmouth, O., in the suit brought through her father to prevent her expulsion from college because of low grades.

Miss West is attending classes at the university but is not allowed to take part in relations. University attorneys are expected to file briefs in the case within a few days. An opinion will follow from Judge J. D. Barnes of Sidney.

TILSON ADVANCED FOR HOUSE POSITION

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Although he has not formally announced his candidacy for the speakership, succeeding the late Nicholas Longworth, Rep. Tilson, of Connecticut, the majority leader, admitted today he expects to be considered by the house members.

Tilson recalled that he has served in the house for twenty years and has been elected majority leader four times. Longworth, Rep. Snell, of New York, chairman of the rules committee, and Tilson practically ruled the house during Longworth's regime.

CHICAGO GANGSTER AUTO CRASH VICTIM

CHICAGO, April 28.—Benny Butler, south side beer gangster through whom Leo V. Brothers was located and arrested for murder of Alfred ("Jake") Lingle, newspaper reporter, was killed today in an auto crash on the south side.

It was by tapping Butler's telephone and listening in on conversations which he and his wife held with Brothers, then known to them only as "Buster," that members of the "board of strategy" finally located the residence where they arrested Brothers.

CHINA GOVERNMENT KILLS COMMUNISTS

SHANGHAI, April 28.—The Communist menace in western Hupeh province was believed ended today with the beheading by the government of 1,800 of the outlaws.

Troops routed the heavily armed bands of Reds and summarily executed the captives. The outlaws have been raiding and pillaging the section for several months, killing hundreds of natives.

DOWN GOES GASOLINE!

CHICAGO, April 28.—Over production and a price war between the leading gasoline companies today brought gas down here to 8 1/2 cents a gallon, the lowest since the horse and buggy days.

ORIE HARNESS BUYS HOSTELRY MONDAY; LIGERS TO RETIRE

Had Operated Hotel Ten Years; Change Effective May 1

Sale of the Regil Hotel, Main and Whiteman Sts., to Orie A. Harness, who formerly operated a cigar store on E. Main St., was announced Monday by Eugene L. Liger, who has been proprietor of the hotel for the last ten and one-half years.

The hotel management will change hands about May 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Liger, who came to Xenia January 1, 1920 to operate the hotel, revealed plans for an extended European trip this summer, after which they may decide to return to Xenia to make their home. They have relatives in France and expect to spend three or four months abroad.

The Regil Hotel building, owned by H. E. Schmidt, has been operated as a hotel since its erection many years ago. Originally it was known as the Ewing House, afterward becoming known as the New Grand Hotel.

When Mr. and Mrs. Liger came to Xenia from Cincinnati more than ten years ago to take over the management, C. H. Nell, then the proprietor, moved to London, O., where he is still engaged in the hotel business.

Upon assuming the management, Mr. Liger changed the name of the hotel to the Regil Hotel. A peculiar feature of the name is that it is Mr. Liger's surname spelled backward.

Over the years he was proprietor, Mr. Liger made extensive improvements. Hot and cold running water was made available in each of the fifty rooms, new baths installed, new tile flooring laid in the lobby, an archway erected to divide the lobby and writing room and considerable redecorating and other interior improvements made.

Mr. Harness, who is not expected to change the present name of the hotel, was proprietor of the Harneis Cigar Store at 31 E. Main St., until a few weeks ago when he sold the business to George H. Smith.

NEW CHICAGO MAYOR PROMISES NEW DEAL

CHICAGO, April 28.—Mayor Anton J. Cermak today formally launched his administration of the affairs of the nation's second largest city, following his inaugural address last night in which he promised a "new deal" for Chicago.

His address was broadcast over twenty-two radio stations—the first time a municipal inaugural had been broadcast over the nation.

The once immigrant child who rose to great political heights in Chicago declared he would begin at once to eliminate waste and extravagance, to suppress crime and further civic progress.

Mayor Cermak extended an invitation to "come here and attend the century of progress exposition in 1933."

Speaking of the police department, Mayor Cermak said that a "hands off" policy will be followed concerning the commissioner of police.

GAMBLING CASINO PLANNED FOR RENO

RENO, Nev., April 28.—A project was under way here today for the erection of a gambling casino at the Reno race track where all sorts of gambling would be added to the customary betting on the horses.

The casino would cost between $40,000 and $50,000. The improvements were to be made by the Silver State Jockey Club under the direction of George Wingfield, Nevada financier and sportsman.

Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, who is here for the announced intention of suing his actress-wife Estelle Taylor, for divorce was reported to be interested in the project. Dempsey, however, has not confirmed his connection with the venture.

PUBLISHER AND POLITICIAN DIES

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 28.—Col. Robert Ewing, nationally known newspaper publisher and Democratic leader in the south, was dead here today.

Death came last night from heart disease, following an illness of several years. He was 73.

Ewing was publisher of the New Orleans States, the Shreveport Times, the Monroe Morning World, and the Monroe Morning World.

CLAIMS SYNDICALISM LAW UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Akron Judge Discharges Man Accused Of Damaging Navy Dirigible; Upholds Demurrer Filed By Defense

AKRON, O., April 28.—Paul F. Kassay, 37, charged with an alleged sabotage plot against the new navy dirigible, the Akron, was freed here today when Common Pleas Judge Walter Wanamaker declared that the Ohio criminal syndicalism law was unconstitutional.

The court's declaration was contained in a decision on the demurrer filed by Mrs. Yetta Land, Cleveland counsel for Kassay, to quash the indictment.

In upholding the demurrer, Judge Wanamaker brought about the release of Kassay, who was arrested last month by federal agents and county officers.

Kassay worked as a mechanic on the new zeppelin in the Good-year-Zeppelin Corporation plant here and was alleged to have revealed his reputed plot to wreck the dirigible to federal agents who were said to have worked by his side for several weeks.

KIDNAPED PHYSICIAN REPORTED RELEASED

ST. LOUIS, April 28.—Dr. Isaac Kelley, St. Louis physician missing for a week, was released by his kidnapers early today to John T. Rogers, reporter of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, according to a copy-right story appearing in that newspaper today.

Dr. Kelley was turned over to Rogers on a St. Clair County roadside at 2 a. m. this morning on the outskirts of East St. Louis, according to the Post-Dispatch story.

Rogers was conducted to the spot where Kelley was released by a man whom he met near his home after he had received an anonymous call that a friend wanted to see him, according to the story printed by the Post-Dispatch.

The physician was said to be unharmed. So far as he knew, the doctor said, no ransom had been paid for his release.

Chief of Police Gerck immediately dispatched Lieutenant Coakley of the homicide squad to the reporting home here, where Doctor Kelley was said to have been taken, to investigate the doctor's reported release.

The physician disappeared on the night of Monday April 20, when he put duty before comfort and drove into a blustering spring rain and windstorm to answer what is believed to be a fake sick call.

Because of the wealth of Dr. Kelley's wife, the former Kathleen McBride, daughter of the late William Cullen McBride, multi-millionaire oil magnate, police from the first worked on the theory that the physician had been kidnapped.

Police said that they had no knowledge of any ransom being paid for the doctor's release. During the physician's absence there have been persistent reports that the Kelley family was communicating with Dr. Kelley's captors. However these reports were consistently denied by an official spokesman for the Kelley family.

THINK DANCER SLAIN BY LOVER

Girl's Body Found Near Lover's Lane

NEW YORK, April 28.—Virginia Brannen, 23-year-old dance hall hostess, was probably murdered by a jealous lover, police said today.

The body of the girl who came to New York from Banor, Me., seeking fame, was found yesterday near a "Lovers' Lane" in the Dunwoody section of Yonkers. She had been "taken for a ride" in broad daylight, shot once behind the heart and her body tossed behind a low stone wall bordering a Catholic seminary.

One of her hands, caught in a hedge bordering the wall, beckoned to passersby, who discovered the body.

Police today had made no arrests in the case. A man, known to have been her friend, was sought for questioning.

Authorities denied there was any connection between the girl's murder and New York gangsters and vice.

WOULD IMPEACH SECRETARY MELLON

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Published threats of Rep. Patman (D) of Texas, that he would seek the impeachment of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon when congress meets were not taken seriously at the treasury today.

This is not the first time enemies of the secretary have sought his removal or demanded his resignation. Mellon never has expressed more than mild surprise at such demands and it was not expected that he would comment on the present case.

None denied that Mellon was one of the richest men in the world—that he had large interests including the Aluminum Company of America, the Gulf Oil Company, and many other corporations as charged by Patman. However, on Tuesday Mellon retired from active management of these institutions. This was considered in conformity with the law.

DROP CHARGES

(BULLETIN) ALBANY, N. Y., April 28.—Governor Roosevelt today dismissed charges filed with him by the city affairs committee of New York demanding the removal of Mayor James J. Walker for misfeasance and incompetency.

ARTIST WILL SAIL

NEW YORK, April 28.—Rockwell Kent, artist and author, will sail Thursday for an eighteen-months trip to Greenland. More than a year ago when he visited Greenland, his small boat was wrecked on the coast and he and two friends barely escaping drowning.

PLANNING SUMMER SCHOOL COURSE AT WILBERFORCE U.

The continuation of a course in social work which proved popular last year is one of the many features of the Wilberforce University summer school which will open Monday, June 15, according to an announcement of Director F. A. McGinnis.

The course will be offered by Prof. George F. David, M. A., who is completing work on his doctorate in sociology at Ohio State University. Specialized courses in education, including educational measurements and child psychology will be offered by four specialists in that field: namely, Prof. Leonora C. Lane, Prof. E. Champ Warwick, Prof. James E. Newsome and Assistant Prof. Colette K. Seale.

Another department which has proved popular in past years is that of fine arts under the direction of Prof. Chas. H. Johnson. This summer the department will offer, in addition to its regular courses for elementary, intermediate and high school teachers, courses in inspirational commercial art. Other members of the faculty and their fields are: Prof. Anthony Davidson, mathematics; Prof. Bruce H. Green and Assistant Prof. Tressie M. Clark, chemistry; Prof. W. H. A. Booker and Prof. Geraldine Jackson, English; Prof. Ralph N. Pyrtle, biology; Prof. Henry H. Summers, philosophy; Prof. Anna M. Terry, music; Prof. Amos J. White, French and German and Prof. G. Thurston Frazier, history.

A series of lectures have been provided for the summer session. This phase of the work will be given prominence by bringing in specially trained and well known lecturers to augment the regular instruction of the session.

The university's extensive campus, with numerous tennis courts and other provisions for outside activities, lends much to the atmosphere of pleasure which pervades the summer school. Every year a number of field trips or excursions are made to nearby points. The paper mills at Cedarville, the cliffs at Clifton, Bryan State Park at Yellow Springs, Fort Ancient—famous Indian battlefield, the Home of Whitelaw Reid, the National Cash Register Plant in Dayton, Indian Lake and numerous other places are visited. These trips yield both profit and pleasure and keep the regular school work from growing monotonous.

FINE, SENTENCE FOR TRUCK DRIVER

Fine of $200 and costs, sentence of thirty days in jail and suspension of his driving rights for six months was the penalty imposed by Probate Judge S. C. Wright Monday upon Gus Stubing, Dayton, who pleaded guilty to operating a truck while intoxicated.

Stubing is said by authorities to be manager of the Dayton Lumber Co. His truck collided with another truck driven by J. R. Hart and also occupied by Derrel Craig on the Dayton-Xenia Pike, three miles west of Xenia, Sunday. Hart, who sustained a cut on the head, and Craig are employees of a construction company engaged in straightening the Dayton-Xenia Pike and eliminating the dangerous curve at Alpha.

DELTA SIGMA THETA LEADS IN STUDIES

The Delta Sigma Theta Sorority continues to lead all Greek letter organizations at Wilberforce University in scholarship, according to figures for the winter quarter just made public by the office of Dean F. A. McGinnis of the college of liberal arts.

The fraternities' lead, held in the fall quarter by Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity, is relinquished to the Phi Beta Sigma fraternity. The following is the standing of all Greek letter groups with their grade point average: Delta Sigma Theta, 3.89; Zeta Phi Beta, 3.50; Alpha Kappa Alpha, 3.49; Phi Beta Sigma, 3.08; Alpha Phi Alpha, 4.07; Sigma Gamma Rho, 2.84; Omega Psi Phi, 2.77 and Kappa Alpha Psi, 2.63.

DENISON STUDENT IS PAWNEE INDIAN

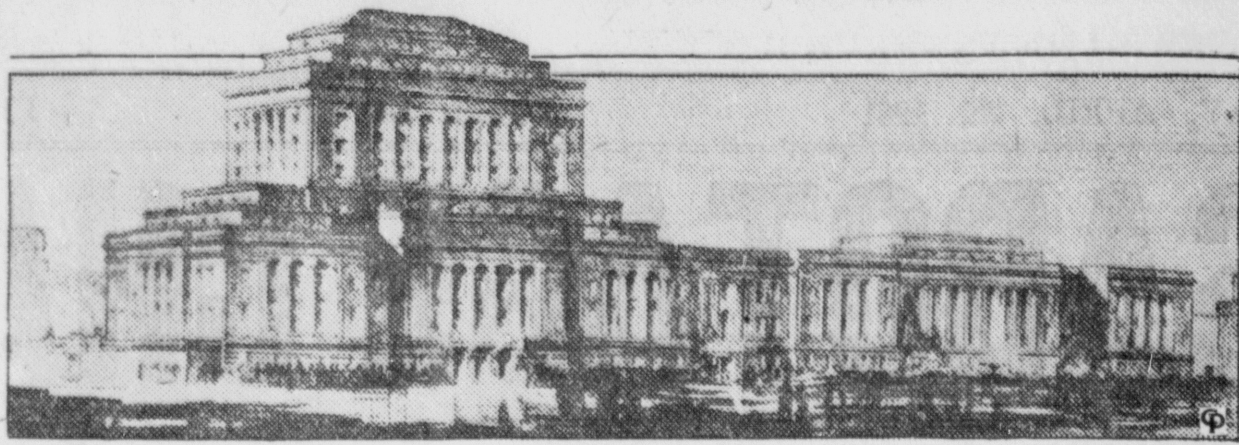

GRANVILLE, O., April 28.—Ralph "Chief" Allen, full-blooded Pawnee Indian and student at Denison University here, is the inspiration for a new play by Richard Woolhart, director of dramas. The play, called "The Living Mist," was recently presented for the first time.

The young chieftain, for he will succeed to that position in his tribe upon the death of his father, made a name for himself last year in a moving picture, "Silent Enemy." Allen also is a well-known vocalist.

NEW CHRISTIAN SCIENCE PUBLISHING HOUSE

BOSTON, Mass., April 28.—Continued growth of the activities of The Christian Science Publishing Society has necessitated expanded facilities. To meet this condition The Christian Science Board of Directors of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, will erect a new publishing house.

Here provision will be made for the needs of The Christian Science Monitor, The Christian Science

Journal, the Christian Science Sentinel and all other literature published by the Society. The new building which will cost in the neighborhood of $3,000,000, will occupy approximately 58,000 square feet of ground bounded by Massachusetts Avenue, Norway, Falmouth and Clearway Streets, Back Bay.

The structure will have a varying height. The Massachusetts Avenue end of the building, which will be used for offices will be nine stories in height, while that part which is opposite The Mother Church edifice will be three and four stories in height and in scale with this edifice.

The publishing building will be related in architectural style to The Mother Church, and its design has been influenced by the fact that in the future it probably will become one of a group of buildings which will surround and form a fitting architectural setting for the Church. It will be an all-stone building of the Italian Renaissance type, the lower story to be of granite and the upper stories of limestone.

BISHOP PARKES TO BE SPEAKER AT WILBERFORCE GRADUATION

Bishop M. B. Parkes, D. D., senior bishop of the A. M. E. Church and successor to the late Bishop A. J. Carey over the Third Episcopal District, will deliver the commencement address at Wilberforce University, June 11, according to announcement by President Gilbert H. Jones.

Bishop Parkes, one of the most able churchmen in the country and a figure of national prominence, is a capable speaker and his coming to Wilberforce will be the highlight of the Diamond Jubilee celebration which will reach its climax at commencement.

The baccalaureate sermon will be preached Sunday, June 7, by Dean Shailer Matthews of divinity school of the University of Chicago. Dean Matthews, known the country over for his liberal view point, is one of the most outstanding authorities in the field of religion, and the securing of his consent to visit Wilberforce is looked upon as extremely fortunate.

Plans for the Diamond Jubilee celebration which will be held as a part of the regular commencement exercises are taking on final shape, one of the outstanding features being the alumni breakfast, at which a host of graduates, dating from the early history of the university to the present, is expected. A monster parade, song fest, reception and a series of recitals are among the other activities planned. Arrangements are now being made for the installation of amplifiers to be placed at key points on the campus, making it possible for speakers to be heard at any point.

ATTENDS DINNER MEETING IN COLUMBUS RECENTLY

Mrs. E. A. Allen, Cedarville, was a guest at a dinner given by Theta Sigma Pi sorority at Neil House, Columbus, April 20. Miss Margaret Widmeyer, novelist and poet, was guest speaker at the affair and spoke on the subject, "Why Are Novels Successful?"

More than 500 women from Columbus and nearby cities were guests at the dinner. In the evening there were Miss Amanda Thomas, Columbus, national president of Theta Sigma Pi; Mrs. Harriett Daily Collins, national chairman of the Matrix Table; Miss Mary White, daughter of Gov. George White; Mrs. George Rightmire, wife of the president of Ohio State University; Mrs. Arthur Reed and Mrs. James Thomas, Columbus and Miss Widmeyer.

The company was composed entirely of writers, alumnae of the journalistic society and students. Among the out-of-state guests present were Mrs. John S. Harvey, Huntington, W. Va., state president of the West Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Harvey was formerly Miss Vers Andrews, of Cedarville. Mrs. H. H. Cherry, Cedarville, was also a guest at the affair.

DAYTON DRAMATIC PUPILS TO PRESENT PROGRAM HERE

A group of girls from the O'Brien School of Expression, Dayton, will present a program at the meeting of the White Chapel Community Club at the school, south of Xenia, Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Members are asked to note the change in date as the meeting had previously been announced for Thursday evening.

The Dayton group will present a play, "Miss Pimm's Kindergarten" and several will present readings and dancing specialties. Music on the program, which is in charge of Mrs. Foy Coffelt and Mrs. Roy Wade, will be furnished by pupils of the White Chapel School under the direction of Miss Bernada Huffman, music supervisor in the Xenia Twp. Schools.

A social hour will be enjoyed later and Mrs. James Leininger, chairman, is asking each family to bring fruit salad. The public is invited to the meeting.

ENTERTAINS GUESTS AT LUNCHEON BRIDGE

Seven guests from Columbus were entertained by Mrs. O. B. Hogart, N. West St., at a delightful luncheon bridge Saturday afternoon. A three course luncheon was served at 1 o'clock and a green and yellow color scheme was carried out in the appointments. Spring flowers were used on the luncheon tables.

Two tables of bridge were in play following the luncheon and high score prizes was presented Mrs. Fred Weaver. Miss Bess Barnes was awarded second prize and the consolation prize was presented Mrs. Maria Tway.

Mrs. Hogart's guests were Mrs. Weaver, Miss Barnes, Mrs. Tway, Miss Flo Latham, Mrs. Mae Macneon, Mrs. Malcolm McCoy and Miss Martha Henderson, all of Columbus.

GUEST SPEAKER HEARD AT JOINT MEETING

Miss Agnes Ballantyne, returned missionary, was guest speaker Friday afternoon when the Women's Missionary Society of the First United Presbyterian Church entertained the societies of the Second U. P. Church and the Presbyterian Church in the church parlors. Following a devotional period conducted by Mrs. James P. Lytle, Mrs. J. S. Van Eaton introduced Miss Ballantyne who related many interesting experiences connected with her work in India.

Mrs. William J. Cherry and Mrs. John Davidson sang a duet and later a missionary playlet was presented by Mrs. John McCalmont and Mrs. Carney Frazer. Refreshments were served by the executive committee during the social hour which was enjoyed by more than one hundred guests.

COUPLE HONORED AT DINNER ON SUNDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Morris E. Anders and family entertained a few friends at dinner Sunday at their home on the Stevenson Road, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Orris R. Jones, San Francisco, Calif., formerly of this city.

Guests at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Smith, Miss Doris Smith, Mr. Roger Smith, Mrs. Marietta Spahr, Alpha; Miss Ruth Sparrow, Xenia; Mr. Stanley Chitty, Columbus; Miss Evelyn Anders, Mr. Abraham Anders and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Anders.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones are enjoying a visit in Alpha at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Smith and family.

GREENE COUNTIANS ATTEND ITANNICIAN CLUB BALL

Miss Mary Shane, Yellow Springs and Miss Corinne St. John near Xenia, were in attendance at the annual spring ball of the Itannician Club at Dunkirk, Ind., Thursday evening. The club rooms were decorated in a color scheme of red and white and music was furnished by Jimmie Reesman's Orchestra, of South Bend, Ind.

The grand march was led by Mr. Charles Jones, president of the club and Mrs. Shane, followed by Mr. Walter Painter, vice president, and Miss St. John.

XENIANS RECEIVE HONORS IN SPRINGFIELD.

Miss Frances Jack, Xenia, and Miss Dorothea Pagett, near Xenia, were among 123 students of Wittenberg College, Springfield, to receive honors at an honor day convocation Monday morning in the Health and Physical Education Building at the college. Miss Jack received recognition for excellent work in the first semester of the present school year and Miss Pagett received a four year pin for service in the Wittenberg College Symphony Orchestra.

Mr. Eugene Edmonds, Springfield, former violin teacher at Central High School, received a service pin similar to Miss Pagett's. Mr. Howard Kany, Dayton, son of Mr. Arthur Kany, former Xenian, received recognition for excellent scholastic work during the second semester of last year and the first semester of this school year.

TWO PROGRAMS ANNOUNCED BY XENIA MUSIC CLUB

Two interesting programs and meetings within the next few weeks are being announced by the Xenia Woman's Music Club. The first of these will be a student recital, sponsored by the club, at the home of Miss Juanita Rankin, E. Main St., Tuesday, May 12, at 8 p. m.

A meeting of the club open to its friends and lovers of music will be held at Christ Church Parish House Thursday evening, May 7. Time of meeting will be announced later.

XENIAN ELECTED TO PRESBYTERIAL OFFICE

Mrs. Paul D. Espey, N. Detroit St., was elected associate president of the Dayton Presbyterian at its closing sessions at the Fourth Ave. Presbyterian Church, Dayton, last week. Mrs. Espey has served as president of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church and also as president of the Federated Missionary Societies of the city.

Mrs. W. H. Tilford, who has been ill several weeks from bronchial pneumonia, is now convalescing at her home on N. Detroit St., and is able to receive friends.

Miss Corinne St. John, near Xenia and Miss Mary Shane, Yellow Springs, returned home Sunday after spending the week end at Dunkirk, Ind., with relatives and friends.

Mrs. Joseph Wead is confined to her home on Woodland Ave., because of illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harpham, Clifton, are announcing the birth of a daughter at their home Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Victoria Robertson, E. Main St., who underwent a serious operation at McClellan Hospital several days ago, is improving nicely.

Mrs. Clara Jones, N. Galloway St., who underwent a serious operation at Miami Valley Hospital two weeks ago, is slowly improving and will be removed to her home here Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Margaret Weiss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Weiss, W. Market St., who underwent two operations at Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton, last week, is now gradually improving.

Mrs. Mary Lambert, who has been ill at the home of her niece, Mrs. M. A. Smith, N. Detroit St., is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Dice, N. Galloway St., and Mrs. Melvin Swadener and daughter, Ruth, Hill St., and Mrs. Alice Ginn spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Whitlow, Springfield, formerly of this city.

Mrs. William Short, Hook Road, is ill at her home with an attack of the mumps. Her daughter, Jane, is suffering from the measles.

Miss Martha Purdom, dietitian at Bethesda Hospital, Zanesville, spent the week end here with her mother, Mrs. Charles Purdom, N. Galloway St.

THREE HIGH SCHOOL CLASSES GIVE CASH TO HELP PIPE LINE

Gift of $75 to the Xenia Play-ground Association to help finance the project for piping water from Shawnee Park to Cox Athletic Field for drinking and sprinkling purposes was announced Tuesday. The donation has been made by the three upper classes of Central High School, the sophomore, junior and seniors classes each voting to give $25 toward the fund.

Central High students decided to lend financial aid because the project will have a two-fold benefit. Part of the money will be used to purchase a faucet and sprinklers in order that the football gridiron can be sprayed with water when necessary.

A trench has already been dug for the pipe line and the remainder of the $75 will be used to help purchase pipe, which will be laid underground to a depth of about three feet, extending to the softball diamond.

Walker Gibney, president of the association, announced that it will still be necessary to raise about $30 more to complete the project, however.

COMMISSION TAKES HANIFAN CASE HERE UNDER ADVISEMENT

Failing to reach an agreement following a two-hour hearing Monday night at which nine witnesses testified, City Commission took under advisement the case of William Hanifan, suspended city fireman.

Commissioners Henry L. Binder and F. M. Chenblisher voted to reinstate the deposed fireman and Commissioners Harry M. Fisher and I. S. Dines favored making the suspension permanent. Commissioner Jacob Kany refused to vote.

As a result of the split vote the indefinite suspension will remain in force until the next commission meeting, May 14, when the matter may again be considered and a definite decision reached.

Hanifan, former chief of the department, was suspended April 21 by City Manager M. C. Smith on the recommendation of Fire Chief Herman Fisher, who preferred five charges against the fireman. Chief Fisher claimed that on certain dates he specified during the last year Hanifan was off duty under the influence of liquor and in no condition to perform his duties.

The suspended fireman denied every allegation at a hearing before commission Monday night. Captain Kenneth W. Dice, Lieut. Walter Buffington, Fireman Ola Wolary and Pipeman Anthony Jones testified in support of the charges. Chief Fisher also being called to the stand.

Fireman Hanifan testified in his own defense, while Pipeman James Cain, his father, Frank Cain, and James Kennedy also occupied the witness chair as defense witnesses.

City Solicitor W. A. Miller prosecuted the charges and Attorney Marcus Shoup was defense counsel.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

He that is unjust, let him be unjust still; and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still; and he that is righteous, let him be righteous still; and he that is holy, let him be holy still. And, behold, I come quickly; and my reward is with me, to give every man according as his work shall be.—Revelation, xxii, 11, 12.

THE TALKATIVE GENERATION

Who constitute the talkative generation? Is it made up of the young people who are so much criticized by their prudent and frequently shocked elders?

A lady who sees much of young people, remarks that these youngsters think the older people talk too much. They notice how the elder folks love to sit around in conversation and spend hours together in exchanging thoughts ranging from mere gossip to serious discussion.

There is no doubt that those who are now getting elderly and aged, have always spent a great deal of time in talk. In the days before automobiles and movies, a vast amount of time was spent in social calling, in which talk was the only diversion. Good conversation is stimulating to the mind, and this talk was not at all wasted. Many people used to "settle the affairs of the world" as they called it, in these conversations. They would find delight in exchanging their opinions on every subject before the public eye. Conversation of that kind was often very stimulating, and it promoted general intelligence. But talk can be overdone.

A great many of the younger people are too active to spend time in talk. They are always doing something, driving cars, playing at sports, attending movies, dancing, etc. As a result many of them do not have much facility for conversation, they have not learned to talk well, and it is difficult to get them to express themselves. They do not gain the mental stimulus that comes from intelligent conversation, but on the other hand they do not waste time in idle gossip.

The older people talked too much, and wasted much time in talk which should have been devoted to useful activity. Probably we have gone from a generation that talked too much, to one that talks too little, and is unable to sit down quietly in the home circle and exchange intelligent ideas.

BLAME FOR SLOW BUSINESS

There are certain faults in human nature that always have caused periods of slow business, and they always will until these faults are modified. Trades which are not affected by styles and fashions run along about the same in all seasons. There is always a demand for bread and meat, for instance, so that fluctuations in public demand do not affect the market for these products to any extent.

But in trades where styles are constantly changing, dealers can not stock up with goods for long in advance. A merchant who should buy a year's supply of women's dresses, would be likely to find half of them out of style before the year is out. It is so with a great many articles, particularly on things the women wear.

The result is that the factories that produce such goods have to limit themselves pretty closely to the things needed for the season for which they are working. And then when the seasonal rush is over, they have to lie idle or run part time, until the styles for another season are determined and the orders flow in. That makes work in such trades very irregular and leads to distress. Goods produced in that jerky way are more costly, since higher prices have to be paid the workers per hour or per day or per piece, if the work is irregular.

It is much the same on goods for which there is a purely seasonal demand. Take coal used for domestic fuel. The great majority of people will not buy in spring or early summer when prices are usually low, but they wait until they need the coal. That leads to a long lagging period in the early season, while if people would buy such fuel in advance of their needs, they could save money and keep the miners employed regularly.

People must show more judgment, they must be willing to buy when goods are cheap, and they must expect to follow the whims of style so closely, if they want to have business run regularly.

NEVADA PEEVED

The people of the sparsely populated but decidedly cocky state of Nevada are becoming peevish over outside criticisms of their new divorce-while-you-wait and gamble-as-you-please laws, passed recently to bring "business prosperity" to the region.

As a dispatch from the high, wide and handsome city of Reno puts the matter, Nevada "wants to work out its own destiny" and "intends to think and act independently" and "preserve its own sovereign states rights," and desires "other states to mind their own business." In other words, Nevada insists upon being left to stew in its own juice and be as odorous as it pleases, which might not be so bad if the juice only wouldn't splash over. There's a postscript, too, in the form of a remark that it's hypocritical anyhow for other states to object to what Nevada is doing because conditions in them really are "much worse," whereas in Nevada, everything is "open, honest and well regulated."

Open undoubtedly, well regulated probably, but when did shamelessness become honest merely by being legalized and capitalized?

However, Nevada calls this being free, and maybe that's what it is. In the same sense the old pirate communities of the West Indies were "free." But the verbal ebullitions accompanying the state's declaration of independence suggest that its particular idea of liberty is rather Ismaelitic, and that the commonwealth has not yet arrived at social maturity. The heated character of some of the retorts by its spokesmen are reminiscent outbursts of a child in a tantrum. Adults generally get over liability to emotional frenzy. When they don't, they are likely to land in prison or in a retreat for mental cases.

A speakasy is a place where benighted persons drink hard.

The question arises: If Mussolini should quit his role as dictator in Italy, what would happen to Victor Emmanuel?

At least Americans in Nicaragua get as much protection from bandits as those in their own country do.

A questioner in a medical column wants to know what makes him yawn frequently. Perhaps he is tired.

So Volva thinks we are all going to Hell in 1935. The danger isn't immediate then.

So there is no unemployment in Russia. There seldom is on a slave plantation.

The old idea that all women favored prohibition is getting some hard knocks.

A specialist gives eight rules for taking a bath, but only one is necessary, get in and splash.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK, April 24.—"Backbone is all the business man needs to combat gangsters," says Police Commissioner Mulrooney.

And by the same token, if every public official were doing the work the people are paying them to do, there wouldn't be any gangster problem.

THE ORACLE OF CICERO

In this connection read what America's super-gangster has to say on the subject.

"There's one thing worse than a crook," opines Al Capone, "and that is a crooked man in a big political job. Any man that pretends he is enforcing the law and is really taking 'dough' from somebody who is breaking the law. Even a self-respecting hood (hoodlum) hasn't any use for that kind of fellow. The hood buys them like he would any other article necessary in his trade; but he hates them in his heart."

EFFICIENCY

Brother Woodcock, the Prohibition Feller, avows the intention of "trying to make Volstead law enforcement more human."

"When you read a thing like that your first reaction is resentment at being kidded. Then you take a look at Brother Woodcock's picture and the realization forces itself that he isn't kidding. He's serious. And it is his ability to pull the stuff like that that enables him to hold his job."

CHESTNUT

John Held, Jr., author of "Dog Stories," talked about dogs recently, on the radio. He considers the dachshund the most intelligent breed and also the most adaptable to living in a New York apartment because "they fit so well under furniture."

A revamp of the old vaudeville description of the dachshund—"two daws long an' a half a daw high—under th' bureau."

CHANGED DESTINATION

A New York toothpaste manufacturer is head of a corporation that is buying up a string of English country inns and public houses. They are being renovated and will be operated under American management to cater to automobile tourists who want something better than the type of wayside inn or "pub" now available.

The corporation has already acquired sixty-three small inns within a radius of 150 miles of London. The old landlords are being retained for the same reason that there was an organ in Magpie Murphy's Home—that is, "to give the house a tone." But a dozen or more American district managers will be retained to see that the bloom of "lymies" step on it.

When the deal is completed there will be one of these new style American "pubs" every twenty-five miles on the main roads from London.

They used to say that when good Americans died they went to Paris. That'll be changed, pretty soon, to Lunnon.

RECOMMENDED TO MISS 1931

The author also tells of a book called "The Anatomy of Abuses," written by Philip Stubbs in 1589, in which cosmetics were denounced on the ground that the women who buy them "deny the Lord to be either merciful or almighty, or both, and so consequently no God at all; for if He could not have made them fair, then He is not almighty; and if He could, and would not, then, He is a merciful God."

Even in matters of reform, the newest story is the one that's longest forgotten.

THE QUESTION BOX

Central Press Wash. Bureau

Answers to questions on information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, 1435 East Twelfth Street, Cleveland, O., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions nor will the estimated value of old coins be given.

Where in literature does the expression "chore invisible" occur? These words are from the poem by George Eliot, "O May I Join the Choir Invisible."

Days and Months

What is the source of the names of the months and the days? The months are of Roman origin. The names of the days of the week are from the Saxons, who dedicated each day to a deity, as did the Romans. In these details there is, in almost every instance, a close analogy. Thus the Roman names of the week have really undergone only a translation into Saxon.

Population of Cities

How large should a municipality be to become a city?

The majority of the states specify that a town have 10,000 residents in order to incorporate as a city, although to number of the western states require a much smaller population.

University Presidents

Who is the president of the University of Wisconsin? Of the University of Iowa?

Glenn Frank is the president of the University of Wisconsin, and Walter A. Jessup of the University of Iowa.

SPORTS OF THE RING

WASHINGTON, April 25.—When the manager of one of our big industries of today wants to slash his payroll, he is not so casual as to post a notice announcing it, in the fashion of a generation ago.

A manager who is a real diplomat often is clever enough to effect a wage reduction in the guise of an increase.

Of course the workers ultimately discover from the contents of their pay envelopes that the "readjustment" was not as satisfactory as they thought at first, but this realization may not dawn on them for quite a while—perhaps several weeks. By that time they are more or less accustomed to the lowered rate. Very likely there is some grumbling, but the manager is pretty sure it will subside before long.

Such, anyway, is the story I heard in Washington at the A. F. of L. building on Massachusetts avenue, where most of the affiliated unions' national officials hold forth. These executives say it is mighty difficult to point to a given concern in the country's major class of industries and prove that it has cut wages. Nevertheless, they assert, workers (those who still have jobs) are very widely drawing reduced pay.

Piece work is mentioned as responsible for it in many cases. "A new tool, for example, is introduced," as one labor official explained to me, "which supposedly will enable the worker to increase his output. His price is cut correspondingly, but he is told to speed up and he will do as well as before, or better—but soon finds it hopeless."

Budd L. McKillips, an able and experienced investigator on the staff of the railroad brotherhoods' organ, "Labor," speaks of one giant industry which, having reduced wages steadily, he says, "never has done so on a scale to create the same grievance for a large number of men at the same time."

He admits that he cannot determine the extent of these cuts exactly because:

"The rates and methods of pay are so varied and complicated that it is virtually impossible for an outsider to say that any certain amount is the average wage for rank and file workers."

Among reports in labor circles is a persistent one that the pay reduction campaign is international—not haphazardly so, but in accordance with a carefully mapped-out plan.

Governor Montagu Norman of the Bank of England, who recently was in Washington in conference with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, is referred to as having come here in large part to seek the co-operation of American banking and industry in getting wages down to the diminished level of commodity prices. British workers, he is said to have represented to Secretary Mellon, are likely to be less resentful if aware that labor deflation is in progress in the United States as well as in the British Isles.

Definite verification of these rumors is unobtainable thus far, and probably always will be, since well founded or not, it is highly unlikely that any record will be kept of such conversations.

Many labor leaders certainly do, at all events, believe that an understanding exists between international bankers, looking toward a world cut in wages, not to a common level, but in proportion to the cost of living in the various important industrial countries.

An international angle to the situation has by now fairly begun to be talked of and comment concerning it is decidedly hazy.

As may readily be imagined, however, American workers are far from disposed to look kindly on a program to sacrifice their interests to big business as a world-wide proposition, and if the idea solidifies in their minds that a scheme to that end is simmering, the outcry is sure to be terrific.

The whole wage reduction situation is new.

Labor obviously has been afraid of pay cuts ever since early in the depression, but pay cuts only begun to be coherently urged within the last few weeks—though financial and industrial magnates may have been waiting considerably longer than that for what they believed would be a favorable moment to start the downward pressure.

There is no question that at last it has begun.

How much internationalism is connected with it is problematical.

Baked Macaroni or Spaghetti

With Cheese.—Two cups macaroni or spaghetti, broken into small pieces; two tablespoons flour, four tablespoons butter or other fat, two cups milk, one teaspoon salt, three-fourths pound sharp flavored cheese, shaved thin; one-half cup buttered bread crumbs. Cook the macaroni or spaghetti in two quarts of boiling salted water until tender, and drain. Make a sauce with the flour, fat, milk and salt. Take it from the stove, add the cheese, and stir until the cheese is melted. Place the macaroni or spaghetti in a buttered baking dish in alternate layers with the cheese sauce, sprinkle the buttered crumbs over the top, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 30 minutes.

Gingerbread.—One cup milk, three and one-eighth cups sifted soft wheat flour, one-third cup fat, one egg, one-half teaspoon soda, four teaspoons baking powder, one-half cup sugar, one cup molasses, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon cloves, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon ginger. Mix and sift the dry ingredients.

Sift the liquid into the dry ingredients. For a shallow loaf the oven should be moderate, about 375 degrees, F.; if muffin pans are used, the oven should be fairly hot, or about 400 degrees, F. In this recipe soft milk may be used instead of sweet, in the same quantity. In that case the soda should be increased to a scant teaspoon, and the baking powder decreased to two teaspoons.

Kidney Bean Salad.—One can kidney or bean salad, one-half dozen sweet pickles, one large onion, one tablespoon vinegar. Put beans and two eggs. Add the vinegar and mix thoroughly. Let stand for one hour.

Nerve Tonic Is Source of Eruption

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Self dosing with drugs over a long period is always a dangerous practice, and sometimes results in serious disorders. Often these appear on the skin in the form of eruptions. The victim may be entirely unaware that the eruption is due to the drug that is being used, and blithely goes on to treat the skin disease for eczema, or something of that kind, meanwhile continuing the administration of the drug. So the eruption gets worse and worse.

I remember seeing a patient several years ago who consulted me on account of large, hideous sores on the legs. They were each as big as a silver dollar and formed fungating masses. Their nature was a complete mystery to me, and I asked a dermatologist into consultation. He immediately recognized them as due to bromides. On questioning the patient, we found that she had been taking a nerve tonic for several months, and that it contained a large amount of bromide. Taking her off this "tonic" and feeding her large amounts of ordinary table salt served to clear up the condition in two weeks.

Bromide rashes on the skin are often on the face, and closely resemble the common disease, acne, or, in ordinary language, pimples. In such instances as use bromides for epilepsy, the patients have to be watched very carefully to prevent the development of such rashes. The treatment, of course, is first to stop taking the bromides. By going only to the eruptions disappear in three or four weeks. Their removal can be hastened by the use of a very simple remedy—salt. It is best given in sterile solution in the vein, but even by mouth it is effective. Its action depends on the fact that it replaces the chlorine they tend to replace the chlorine ions in the body tissues—salt being sodium chloride contains chlorine ions. When the bromides are stopped and the chlorine ions again enter the body a reversal of the process takes place and the chlorine replaces the bromine ions. This treatment shortens the duration of time the eruption would naturally last if simply the bromides were withdrawn by several weeks.

Prevention of bromide skin rashes is even attempted when patients are compelled to take large doses of bromides over prolonged periods of time, by giving equal amounts of salt with it.

Among other commonly used drugs which are not widely known to cause skin eruptions, mention should be made of phenolphthalein. You may not realize from looking at that name that it is a commonly used drug, but it is. It is the active ingredient of the class of cathartics that are sugar or made in the form of candy. The eruption it causes comes mostly on the arms or trunk in the form of discreet rounded or oblong pinkish spots. It may frighten a mother half to death to see her child break out this way, and children are the usual ones to get this kind of cathartic

Give Up Married Lover

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAREST VIRGINIA: At nearly 15 I met and fell in love with a fellow 24 years old. We became friends and it deepened into love, but he was married and had been for five years, with two little sons.

"We were madly in love, and met secretly for 18 months. I wrote to you and you told me to give him up. Finally I broke up with him. He got work out of town. I grew pale and thin and had a nervous breakdown. I tried to forget, but it was in vain.

"After a few months I felt better. For five months I didn't see him, but going home from school one evening I accidentally met him. The longing in my heart flamed up, and the next night we were together. I tried to make him promise he'd never see me again, but he vowed he'd never give me up and as his own he hopes to claim me as his day.

"Virginia, please help me. Can't you tell me something I can do or say? Love is strong, and always gets the best of me. I don't want to go with him, even though my heart aches for him. Please give me some help, even if it's only two words.

"A FORLORN SOUL."

You don't say how old you are now; about 16, eh? It's too bad the boy friend had to come back just as you had succeeded in gaining control over your emotions.

You've made a brave fight, little girl, and I think he, being older, should have helped you instead of putting temptation in your way. I'd think a lot more of him if he had.

There are just two things you can do to strengthen yourself—keep from seeing him and go to see his family. Could you confide in either of your parents, in a sister or brother? They might be able to help you by being with you when you go out.

If you saw his children you would realize what it meant to break up a home and would be strengthened to be firm. Do you know his wife? No matter what he may tell you of their relations, you know his fealty to her and the children if such a thing is numerically possible.

My advice is still the same: Give him up, no matter at what cost. Unless circumstances change you will find no happiness in continuing the affair. Write me any time you think I can be of help.

W. D.: I think as long as the boy friend is away all the time and you are not really engaged it would be all right to go with other boys occasionally. He can hardly expect you to stay at home all the time. However, you know him best, and if you are afraid of offending him and you care enough for him to do as he wishes, maybe it would be best to go only with girl friends.

Is he going to be away indefinitely? If so, I think you should have an understanding so that each may have some fun, although true to one another.

ANXIOUS MARGARET. Yes, to all your questions, Margaret.

ALWAYS KEEPING IN MIND CAUSE OF SUN'S APPARENT MOTION

It must be remembered that what causes the sun to appear to make an annual journey around the earth is really the earth's forward eastward motion around the sun that results in giving the sun an everchanging background of stars all the way around the sun speeding up during certain months of the year, and of its slowing down. But the real body that speeds up in its orbit and slows down is the earth. The sun makes no annual orbit around the heavens. Herein was the old historic conflict of scientific and religious interest between the Ptolemaic theory and the Copernican theory that replaced it.

Cut Out Fattening Foods

By GLADYS GLAD

When the golden-voiced Grace Moore was first engaged to play in "The New Moon" with Lawrence Tibbett, she was required to reduce her weight by a good 15 pounds. For although one of the slenderest of the operatic stars, she was considered a bit too plump for the cinema.

The manner in which Miss Moore eliminated those extra pounds is to be highly commended. She didn't recklessly undertake one of those hazardous "get-thin-quick" methods. No, sir—by simply modifying her daily diet, and excluding all fattening foods, she managed to bring her weight down to the required figure in a gratifying short period of time.

Too many women, in their pursuit of more symmetrical contours, tend to cut the necessities out of their diets, rather than the luxuries. This is an exceedingly harmful practice, for there are certain foods that are absolutely essential to physical health. The chief reason that the diet included in my booklet on "The New Figure" is so effective and healthful is because it is made up primarily of such foods as are required by the body.

The gal who attempts to reduce her weight by cutting the necessities out of her diet, is likely to put herself into fine shape for some nice sanitarium. But the dame who eliminates the foods that the body has no general use for, but which she needs, will also increase her general health.

Sweets, pastries, fried foods, rich salad dressings, rich meat and fish sauces, and starches such as potatoes, white bread, rice and spaghetti can be dispensed with. The body doesn't need such hearty dishes. Meals should consist chiefly of fruits and vegetables, with occasional servings of lean meat or fish. Whole wheat bread should be substituted for white bread. Fruit juices should take the place of stimulating drinks, and rich soda fountain concoctions. Thick, cream soups should be put in the discard, but clear soups of vegetable or meat stock are permissible. Butterm

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED

Weather permitting and everything else being equal there is an outside chance a softball game may be staged Wednesday night at Cox Athletic Field between the Graham Paints and the Criterion, a couple of National League teams. Seven straight games—four in the National and three in the American—have been postponed and the double-headers are piling up thick and fast.

Unless the softball commission decrees otherwise, four teams now face the prospect of playing not one but two double-headers at least during the second round of play—and on successive weeks.

The Red Wing Co., Downtown Country Club, All-Stars and Central High have each had their first two games called off and the remaining six teams may be in a similar predicament if the present unfavorable weather refuses to abate.

Pitching and batting of Carlton Lunsford, Xenia student at the University of Cincinnati, was largely responsible for the fact the Bearcats scored a 6 to 5 ten-inning victory over the heavy-hitting Ohio Wesleyan nine last Saturday.

With the score deadlocked at 5 to 5 "Whites" went in to pitch in the eighth and he not only held the Bishops safe during the last three innings but his timely double in the last half of the tenth paved the way for the winning run to be scored.

Lunsford, so far this spring, has been used only in a relief role in the box, but it won't be long before he will take his regular turn on the mound. He hurled the last two innings of a losing game against Ohio University two weeks ago and was not scored upon.

The favorite outdoor sport these wet days is mushroom hunting and local hunters report they are meeting with great success.

The champion mushroom hunter of these parts has not been crowned but there are plenty of candidates for title. Charlie Weaver gathered 101 the other day. Clark Eckert and Bill Spahr, between them, found more than 150. Steve Phillips got mushrooms by the dozens last Saturday and Sam Huston said he was amply repaid for a long walk he took in the woods last Sunday morning.

Among the many things we did not know until recently was that the famous Roger Peckinpaugh, of the Cleveland Indians, has a son old enough to play college baseball and who is a promising candidate for the Ohio Wesleyan University freshman diamond team this spring. He plays second base.

Russell Limes, Xenia bantamweight, who is entered in the Miami Valley Golden Glove boxing tournament for amateurs at Dayton, will be seen again in one of the ten bouts carded for Wednesday night this week.

Limes, who is probably the only would-be boxer, living or dead, who owes what he knows about the leather-pushing industry to a correspondence course, has been the sensation of the tournament to date.

BABE RUTH WILL BE BACK WITHIN WEEK

NEW YORK, April 28.—Babe Ruth is aching to get back into action. And if the opinion of those taking care of him is correct, he'll be back in the Yank lineup within seven days.

Last night at his apartment, the bawling had his first walk since the afternoon he collapsed on the field in Boston.

Artie McGovern, his trainer, and Dr. Edward King, his physician, said today the king of swat is getting along wonderfully. They described the much-talked-of injury as a "blood tumor," which is something like a black eye. McGovern stated that the Babe needs a massage twice daily and may be O. K. by Monday.

ODD FELLOWS AT VESPER SERVICES

Odd Fellows from this city and nearby cities and their families attended a special I. O. O. F. vesper service Sunday at 4 p. m. at the Presbyterian Church. The Rev. W. H. Tilford, pastor, spoke on "The Ordinary Man" and the choir, under the direction of Mrs. H. C. Armstrong, sang an anthem. A solo, "Consider the Lilies," was sung by Miss Ruth Alexander.

A scene, with special lighting effects, using the letters, "F," "L," and "T," standing for friendship, love and truth and connected with the three links, the I. O. O. F. emblem, was used by the Rev. Mr. Tilford in illustrating his address.

PLAN PRACTICE TILT

The Criterion team of the National League will clash with the Paintersville softballers in another practice game to be staged at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday on the Washington Park diamond. Last week the Clothiers defeated "Atlas" Smith's team by the close margin of 4 to 6 on the Paintersville diamond.

HALF CENTURY IN BUSINESS

Edwin Galloway Took First Job At $2.50 A Week Fifty Years Ago

FIFTY years in the carpet and furniture business in Xenia is the record of Edwin Galloway, N. Galloway St., member of the firm of Galloway and Cherry, W. Main St. It was fifty years ago this week that Mr. Galloway took his first "job" in the carpet department of the Hutchison and Gibney Co.

At that time the Hutchison and Gibney Co. was in its present location although not housed in the same building as now. Although Mr. Galloway was employed in the carpet department his other duties consisted of "delivery boy" sweeping out the store—all at the small wages of $2.50 a week.

In those days floor size rugs were unheard of and all lace curtains were sold by the yard. Besides Mr. Galloway, Miss Emma Hutchison and Mrs. Katherine Tate, both of this city, are the only surviving employees of the firm at that time.

Mr. Galloway was associated with the Hutchison and Gibney Co. thirty-two years and at the time of his resignation from that firm was in charge of the carpet department. He became associated with David W. Cherry in 1913 and at that time the Galloway and Cherry store was established on E. Main St., taking over the business of Alexander and Son. The store has been in its present room a number of years.

"I have been in the carpet business fifty years and expect to be in it the remainder of my life," Mr. Galloway said when reminiscing over his half century in this business.

EAGLES WILL STAGE PARADE IN DAYTON

Approximately twenty bands and drum corps will be in the line of march for the parade at a district meeting of the Fraternal Order of Eagles in Dayton, Sunday, it is announced by O. M. Rittenhouse, president of Xenia Aerie, No. 1689. Members of Xenia Aerie who attend will have a band to march with them in the parade.

The local aerie expects to have seventy-five members marching in the parade and fifty members in a class of 2,000 to be initiated at the district meeting, which will be one of the largest district gatherings in this section in a number of years.

Members of the local committee making arrangements for the trip to Dayton are O. M. Rittenhouse, E. D. Shoemaker, Harry Jordan, Otto Hornick and Foster B. Clemmer.

UNION COMMUNION SERVICE PLANNED

A union communion service will be held by the First and Second United Presbyterian Churches at the Second Church Sunday evening, it is announced. The two churches have been holding union evening services throughout the winter and this service will close the series.

Decision to hold the union communion service was reached when the sessions of the two churches met at the First U. P. Church Sunday evening.

CUT PEN POPULATION
COLUMBUS, O., April 28.—Population of the Ohio penitentiary will be cut to approximately 4,500 this week with the removal of more than 100 convicts to the London prison farm, Warden Preston E. Thomas announced today.

ALWAYS DEAD TIRED?

How's that? Sallow complexion, coated tongue, poor appetite, bad breath, pimply skin and always tired. What's wrong? Chances are you're poisoned by clogged bowels and inactive liver. Take this famous prescription used constantly in place of calomel by men and women for 20 years—Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. They are harmless yet very effective. A compound of vegetable ingredients. They act easily upon the bowels, help free the system of poison caused by faulty elimination and tone up liver.

Rosy cheeks, clear eyes and youthful energy make a success of life. Take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, nightly. Know them by their olive color, 15c, 30c and 60c. All druggists.

SPRING VALLEY IN WIN MONDAY OVER CEDARVILLE TEAM

Converting fourteen hits and four opposition misplays into thirteen runs, Spring Valley High School's baseball team Tuesday was in possession of its third victory in four games this season by virtue of a 13 to 6 triumph over Cedarville High's nine Monday afternoon on the Valley diamond.

The contest was limited to seven innings and the winners scored in every inning but the fourth. Chilly weather prevailed for the game.

Grube, starting pitcher for Cedarville, was nipped for four runs in the opening round and was replaced by Peterson, who was also hit hard thereafter. Reeves pitched five innings for Spring Valley and Compton, who hurled the last two, fanned six of the nine batters who faced him in the sixth and seventh stanzas.

Grube homered for Cedarville in the fifth. A Lumpkin enjoyed a perfect day at the plate for the Valley nine with four hits in as many trips to the platter.

The Greene County high school baseball championship will be at stake Wednesday afternoon when Jefferson Twp.'s undefeated nine visits Cedarville for a game. Score by innings:

Cedarville 1 0 1 3 1 0 0—6 11 4
Spring Val. 4 1 2 0 1 5 X—13 14 3

Batteries: Cedarville—Grube, Peterson and Harris; Spring Valley—Reeves, Compton and Starr; Umpire—Mendenhall.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, April 28.—A handful of the industrial stocks and specialties, after holding steadily in the first hour today, dropped off sharply in the second hour as selling pressure increased. A better tone in the early trading resulted from the assurances from those in position to know that the steel corporation this afternoon would declare the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the common stock. This was offset by report that the big oil companies had instituted a new price-cutting war in various sections of the country, marking down prices in Chicago as low as 8 1/2 cents a gallon to the consumer.

THE ROMANCE OF A BUSINESS GIRL

By EDNA ROBB WEBSTER ♦ Author of "Daddy's Girl", "Joretta", Etc.

Copyright 1931, Central Press Association

READ THIS FIRST:

Mary Vaughn is private secretary to Ronald K. Foster, an investment banker of Wall Street. She supports her mother, twin brothers and younger sister, Bonnie, to whom she has always given the best of everything until Bonnie wants the man she loves, debonair Dick Baldwin. Bonnie is the spoiled beauty of the family and makes it known that she does not intend to slave for a living all her days. Mary and Dick have had an understanding that as long as Dick reaches a certain goal in business they will make more definite plans. Martin Frazier is Foster's wealthiest client, who persists in trying to pay attention to Mary until her employer asks her to be nice to him on business principles, so she humors him by going out with him occasionally. Frazier discovers that his attraction for Mary is quite different from that of his first analysis. He decides to go south for a month and think things out, for which Mary is glad, as she does not like to go about with him. Bonnie lets Dick know about Mary's attentions from Frazier and gradually gains favor with Dick with her insidious reports about Mary. She attends a studio party in the Greenwich Village with Mary and Dick, at the home of Willa and Ramon Duchon, and tries to vamp all the men of the party. During the events of the evening, Dick accidentally reveals that he has been carrying a note of Bonnie's in his pocket for a month.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Oh, it's all just silly, anyway," Bonnie declared, somewhat vexed. Dick was going through some papers in his pocket and held one up to her. "If you would rather give her something you have written under natural circumstances, here is the note you sent me thanking me for the flowers and things when you were ill."

Bonnie flushed, and the expression on her face did not thank him for his trouble. Mary caught her breath sharply and felt a chill of pain shiver through her body. Why should Dick still be carrying a month-old note of Bonnie's in his pocket?

Bonnie suddenly took the piece of note paper from Dick and handed it to Sheila. There was an awkward silence that no one attempted to break. Even Sheila seemed hesitant to interrupt it. The tension increased.

"Well, little sister," she finally began with an attempt at lightness, "you like pretty things and are gay and joyous, or are depressed. You are moody, right enough. Let's see, you have persuasive powers, in fact, you could almost make anyone believe blarney is white if you wanted to." There was general laughter. "You like comfort and praise and pleasure."

"And how? Who doesn't?" Bonnie retorted with a strained laugh. "I'll say as much." Dick agreed, taking the paper and putting it back in his pocket.

Sheila afterward told Willa, "This public analyzing is no joke. It takes a diploma to carry it off in some cases. Mary's was all right. I told the truth there. But that kid sister's was a revelation. It was just choked with selfishness, egotism, deceit and whatnot. I don't see how their mother ever got them together. She must have found one at the North Pole and the other in Little America, or else she got the wrong baby at the hospital, in one case."

Bonnie bristled her resentment on the way home with Mary and Dick. "I don't think that bunch is so hot. That star gazing and hand-writing stuff is all bunk, if you ask me. If they can keep up the bluff, let 'em go to it, but I'm not so darned easy. That Sheila King is dizzy. Do you believe it, Dick?"

"I dunno. It's interesting. I get all stirred up over one thing after another. But I'm too busy with figures that don't lie and that sort of thing to bother my brains much over it. As you say, if they know their stuff and can put it over, let 'em go to it."

"Well, I'm going to try it out, if I ever go into business for myself," Mary declared.

"In business for yourself?" Dick inquired, with surprise.

Mary laughed. "Oh, I've always thought I might some day be an independent women's broker, but that isn't the biggest ambition in my life," significantly.

"Sheila said you were ambitious," Bonnie reminded her. "I guess she is. She has to be to keep the job she has now," Dick offered.

Mary was grateful for that much in her defense. Bonnie was sitting between them again. When they had got into the car, she had said briskly, "I'm the smallest, I'll ride in the middle." If she were making a generous concession, had climbed in and settled herself before anyone could say a word. So no one did say a word—and there she was, between Mary and Dick again. Mary felt strangely far away from him, anyway.

and she sensed that he was getting farther away all the time.

She shook herself, mentally, for her pessimism. Sheila said she had a vivid imagination. Well, she was letting it run away with her. Just because she hadn't had an intimate talk with Dick since—Tuesday—only last Tuesday? How absurd she was! Still, in the back of her brain, an impulse kept knocking her saner thoughts. "But the note in his pocket—he didn't offer to kiss you goodnight on Friday—do you suppose he will tonight?"

It was very late when they arrived at the Vaughns', no, he wouldn't come in tonight—he would be "seen" her soon, though. Bonnie made no offer to give them a minute alone. Mary had to get out of the car first to let Bonnie out, and there she stood, holding Mary's arm and exchanging gay repartee with Dick, chattering thanks for his taking her, as if Mary were the third member of the party that made "the crowd."

Mary went about her preparations for the night with a sense of deep loss. How different last Sunday evening had been! She had felt then as if she had just gained the whole world. Had she lost it somewhere during the week?

When she arrived at the office on Monday morning she was surprised to find an immense florist's box on her desk. There must be some mistake, surely. No, the address was very plain—Miss Mary Vaughn.

She slipped the twined green and silver cord, wondering, and lifted the cover. A fresh, exotic fragrance enveloped her. The waxy pale green tissue paper disclosed a dozen shaggy bronze and gold chrysanthemums, nestled in a bed of autumn leaves and greenery.

There was a sealed note. Perhaps a congratulatory offering from Dick. Had he too sensed a "rift within the lute," and was trying to repair it? But he shouldn't have done it this way! What extravagance, when all he needed to say was three little words! She opened the envelope eagerly.

"Ma chere," she read—and her heart sank, leaving a void that was filled with a horrid ache. From Martin! She almost had forgotten him in her concern for Dick.

The note continued, "Fearing that you will forget me in my absence, may I take this way of reminding you that I shall soon be coming back to you? I have left an order with the florist to be filled for you twice each week while I am gone. I hope you will like each one. They represent my constant memories of you, that are sweeter than any flowers. Devotedly, Martin."

"And how? Who doesn't?" Bonnie retorted with a strained laugh. "I'll say as much." Dick agreed, taking the paper and putting it back in his pocket.

Sheila afterward told Willa, "This public analyzing is no joke. It takes a diploma to carry it off in some cases. Mary's was all right. I told the truth there. But that kid sister's was a revelation. It was just choked with selfishness, egotism, deceit and whatnot. I don't see how their mother ever got them together. Mary let the note flutter from her fingers with a little weary gesture and sigh

The Theater

"Precedent," written by I. J. Golden and presented by Sidney Harmon at the Provincetown Playhouse, is fashioned from the celebrated Mooney-Billings case in California.

In the playwright's interpretation, Gloria Swanson can't sever her connections with United Artists. She has a contract with them for three more pictures and is even a part owner of the corporation. Furthermore, any picture she makes independently, must be released through them. So, no matter if Gloria succeeds in financing "Rockabye" on her New York trip, it still will be a United Artists' picture. Norma Talmadge can't retire for the same reason and Mary Pickford also has a contract for one more picture.

Feminine movie stars are not succumbing easily to the new mode of long hair, it is said. Loretta Young, Betty Compson and Lois Wilson are the only cinema beauty. Branching out from Paramount, Jean Arthur will go to Universal to play opposite Robert Armstrong in "The Whole Town's Talking," the Anita Loos-John Emerson story of a small town boy who falls in love with a picture of a movie star.

Conchita Montenegro, imported from Spain, made her debut in English speaking pictures as the Spanish dancer in "Strangers May Kiss." Norma Shearer's latest vehicle, she plays the role of "vamp" in the film.

A number of others have never yielded to the scissors. Genevieve Tobin, Rose Hobart, Sidney Fox, Ann Harding, Dolores Costello, Barbara Stanwyck and Eleanor Boardman are among those who have held out for the old mode. Many are now compromising on shoulder-length hair, convenient because it allows for a coiffure of either style and makes wigs more comfortable when necessary. Norma Shearer, Greta Garbo, Joan Crawford, Constance Bennett, Helen Twelvetrees and Lilyan Tashman follow this style. Among stars who have no intention of abandoning their bobs are Mary Pickford, Ina Claire, Norma Talmadge, Dorothy Mackall and Lella Hyams. Wynne Gibson plans discarding her long tresses for a bob. Many of them like to swim and find short hair more convenient for the water.

AMERICANS NOW SEEKING BEAUTY IN THEIR HOMES

Increased Wealth, Leisure Give Opportunity To Gratify Desires

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 28.—Leisure and wealth have brought to youthful America the old world atmosphere and the desire to satisfy the longing for beauty in the homes, said Mrs. Marion Teal, merchandising counselor and authority on home decoration.

Busy Americans, she said, have always had an appreciation of beautiful interiors but in their hustle and bustle of life have "never had time" to beautify their homes in the manner they would have liked.

Consider the Background
"Interior decoration, architecture and furnishings must be regarded as a unit in equipping the home," Mrs. Teal said. "The furnishings must have the proper background. In other words, the furnishings must be appropriately adapted to the type of walls or floor or the other must be changed to create the proper atmosphere."

"When a woman plans to go shopping for furnishings she must take into consideration the architectural features of her rooms. The furnishings and the interior decorations to be used in those rooms must be in keeping. An English, Early American or a room that is distinctive architecturally of any period must, of course, have furnishings adapted to the period."

Visualizing Desire
While it is a good plan to have a definite picture in mind of the furnishings and decorative pieces to be purchased, Mrs. Teal explained, some women decide only when they "see what they want." "Statistics show," she said, "that only a very small percentage of persons have the power of visualization, of calling up a mental picture of exactly what they want. They must actually see the article before they can make up their minds. I have heard the expression made, 'I don't know what I want but when I see it I will know what I want.'"

In Reach Of All
"America might be called the adolescent country. It is a youthful nation just growing up and now it is reaching the period where its people are beginning to appreciate leisure. With that appreciation comes the opportunity to beautify their homes."

"Our country is the youngest in the world and yet no other country offers beautiful home interiors. The desire for beauty in line with the population, says Mrs. Teal, is reaching a new peak in America. The masses are beginning to realize the advantage of the new style furnishings being offered. Twenty years ago reproductions of the well-to-do, but modern improvement, these within the reach of the middle class or families of average means."

Style Tendencies
Teal said that from her observations at the furniture centers Early American had its peak; French Provincial in demand and that and Directoire are on the wane in popularity. Georgian and English furniture is in good taste and a tendency toward modern furniture, especially in bedroom pieces, has been apparent, she said.

Manufacturers are increasing the variety and excellence of furnishings to meet the changes in American living habits, due to the increased pressure for space in the cities. For apartment houses and small homes there are all sorts of smaller pieces, just as comfortable, graceful and well-styled as the larger designs. The furniture of two generations ago was almost entirely designed for the spacious rooms in practically every home. Now, with a large part of the population living in smaller rooms, furniture manufacturers are meeting the demand.

REFRIGERATION CHANGES DIET

The American diet is gradually changing for the better. Greens and other perishables are being added to the family diet specialists and food experts declare should be on the daily diet are coming into popularity. Fresh and cooked vegetables are finding their proper place on the menu and the family table.

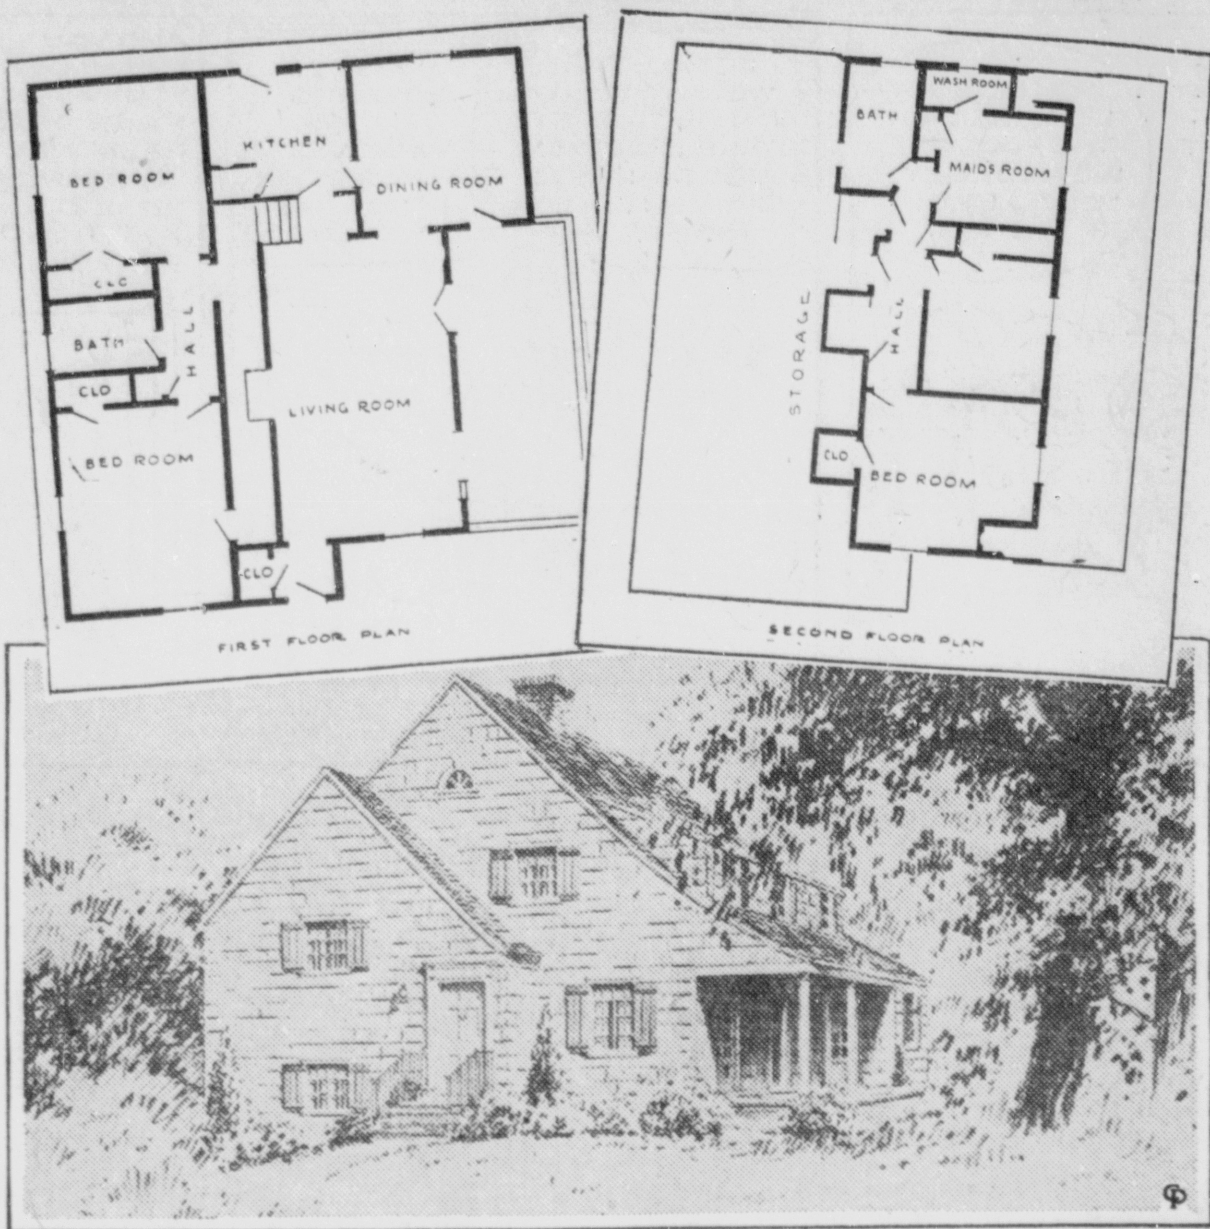

Some nutrition experts place greens and milk above all other items on a proper diet and then add that after such provision, anything else may be eaten that the appetite calls for.

Proper refrigeration facilities in the home are necessary, especially in view of this changing diet. Perishables must be kept at a constant, proper temperature from the time they are purchased until they are cooked or eaten. Electric refrigeration gives the assurance of proper temperature.

PORCH USED TO LIGHT ROOMS IN A SMALL HOUSE

Small house in which the porch is used to light living room and dining room, and also to serve as outdoor sitting room.

Selected for Central Press By Architectural Research Bureau

The American Home Magazine

More and more the porch is losing its primary purpose of being a retreat on warm summer days, and is becoming what in Mediterranean countries is known as a loggia. In other words, the porch is used to light two rooms, usually the dining room and living room, as well as serving as an outdoor sitting room. The house illustrated here is an example of the way such a porch may be successfully planned for a small house. In this case, French doors open off the living room and dining room.

The plan of this house, as a matter of fact, has been exceptionally well done. While the house is more or less in the colonial style, it follows no exact precedents, and the exterior has been made to reflect the plan.

Flagstoned Entrance

One enters a small flagstoned vestibule, which opens into the living room. There is a fireplace on the long inside wall of this room, which is 24 by 14. The dining room is 13 by 13, and features a china cabinet in the right-hand outside corner. The kitchen is 11 by 10 feet, and is separated from the living room by a stairway.

Perhaps the most interesting part about this unusual house is that the bedrooms are on two levels. One ascends the stairs to the hallway which connects the two bedrooms shown on the first floor plan, or one may continue up the stairs to the maid's room and two other bedrooms. This difference in the floor levels makes it possible to put a garage under the house without an unnecessary amount of excavation.

LAWNS NEED PROPER CARE TO KEEP THEM GREEN SAYS EXPERT

We are told by physicists that plants do not differ greatly from ourselves in their requirements, for life and growth. Like ourselves, plants must have the right amount of food, water, and warmth. An excess of one of these vital requisites will not compensate for a deficiency of another.

It is explained that water dissolves the plant food in the soil, bringing with it to form a "Soil solution," and that the solution is taken up by plants as needed. The weather, the greater consumption of the solution, and growth is proportionate to the amount of food and water consumed by the plant.

With this fact known, we can understand why lawns turn brown and die out during summer. It is invariably due to a deficiency of the plant food. Most people are quite generous when it comes to supplying water to their lawns. Liberal applications of water produce an abundant growth so long as the soil's store of plant food lasts, but when it becomes exhausted, growth will cease unless additional plant food is added.

Today there is no reason for allowing grass or any other plants to suffer from lack of food. It is a very easy matter to feed plants regularly—and properly. Modern science has developed a complete, scientifically balanced plant food which can be applied right on the surface and soaked into the soil. This plant food is clean, odorless, and pleasant to handle. It can be applied in about the same length of time it would take to water the lawn.

In addition to these desirable physical qualities, this plant food is more effective than any of the old-fashioned makeshifts used in the past, because it contains all of the food elements grass and other plants need in just the right proportions for greatest growth and beauty.

This plant food, made by responsible manufacturers, can be purchased in convenient sized packages from dealers in lawn and garden supplies everywhere.

SMILING floors and cheery furniture are merely a matter of surface appearance. Your floors, if they are properly refinished, will look just as nice as the floors in a new house and your furniture, under similar treatment, will rival the pieces in the furniture store windows.

The change is very easy to accomplish with LOWE BROTHERS' NEPTUNITE VARNISH STAIN for it stains and varnishes at one stroke of the brush. It colors all of the cuts, scratches and marks making the surface uniform and it brings out the beauty of the wood grain.

Neptunite Varnish Stain is very easy to use. It stains and varnishes at the same time and it comes in a variety of pleasing colors. Come in and get a color card.

A quick way out

UNEMPLOYMENT is ended by giving people employment. Right now you can do two things to help. They are your opportunity—for to do them is to help friends, neighbors, fellow citizens. They are your privilege—for to do them is to create added insurance for keeping your own job.

Your Duty as a Citizen

Help your local government to hasten useful public works, to speed up appropriations, to cut red tape. Attend all community meetings for creating employment. Assure your local officials that you are behind them in all efforts to provide employment through organized activity. Subscribe if you can, to local relief for unemployed. THIS IS SOUND CITIZENSHIP.

Your Opportunity as an Individual

Give all the employment you can. If you have the money—start jobs of house-painting, carpentry, repairs, additions to your property. There are many things to be done, and now is a good time to do them, as you are buying material at very favorable prices. THIS IS SOUND INVESTMENT OF YOUR MONEY—AND SOUND PATRIOTISM.
